

BENCE SZABÓ

E-mail: benceszabo@phd.unibocconi.it

GitHub: github.com/benceszabo

LinkedIn: linkedin.com/in/bence-szabo

Website: benceszabo.com

RESEARCH INTERESTS

Demographic economics, public economics, labor economics

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Bocconi University, Milan

Research Assistant

01/2021–03/2022

- Database building, statistical analysis, data visualization for Prof. G. I. P. Ottaviano and Gábor Békés

Teaching Assistant

09/2019–08/2021

- Econometrics 20203 course (MSc level) of Prof. Giovanni Bruno, responsible for grading exams, visiting hours for students w.r.t. cross-sectional and panel econometrics

Budapest Bank, Budapest

Credit Risk Modeling Analyst

09/2017–08/2018

- Developing ICAAP risk models: PD for commercial leasing and SME portfolios, LGD for all wholesale and retail commercial portfolios
- Maintaining commercial ICAAP, IFRS models, and concentration risk simulation
- Providing generalized machine learning solutions to the modeling team

Centre for Economic and Regional Studies, Hungarian Academy of Sciences, Budapest

Research Assistant

05/2016–07/2017

01/2014–08/2015

- Econometric and statistical analysis using large demographic, labor, and firm datasets (regression, network, and cluster analysis)
- Database building and research documentation

Senior researchers: Gábor Kertesi, Gábor Kézdi, Tamás Hajdu

Institute for Economic and Enterprise Research, Budapest

Junior Analyst

03/2015–08/2015

Analyst Intern

10/2013–10/2014

- Economic and statistical analysis of employment and firm dynamics, database building

Senior researcher: István János Tóth

EDUCATION

Bocconi University, Milan

2018–2023

Ph.D. in Economics

Thesis: Three Essays in Public Economics

- Tax Incentives and Completed Fertility (JMP)
- Charitable Behavior and Public Intervention
- Housing and Fertility

Advisors: G. I. P. Ottaviano, Joseph-Simon Görlach, Francesco C. Billari

Central European University, Budapest 2015–2017*MA in Economics*, GPA: 3.9/4.0, class rank: 1/20

Thesis: Fertility Effects of the Family Tax Break Extension in Hungary

Advisor: Gábor KézdiEötvös Loránd University, Budapest 2011–2014*BA in Applied Economics*, Graduated with Honors, GPA: 5.0/5.0

Thesis: Determinants of Post-Graduation Foreign Country Employment

Advisor: János KöllőAWARDS, FELLOWSHIPS

Budapest Institute YEP Fellowship	2022
Full Scholarship of the Economics Ph.D. Program at Bocconi University	2018–2022
Master's Thesis First Prize of the Hungarian Economic Association	2017
Peter Hangartner Fellowship	2015–2016
Best Thesis Prize of BA in Applied Economics, Eötvös Lorand University	2014
Fellowship of the Republic of Hungary	2013–2015
National Secondary School Academic Competition, History 1 st prize	2010

LANGUAGES

English (advanced, C1), German (intermediate, B2), Hungarian (native)

PROGRAMMING SKILLS

R (tidyverse), Python (pandas, numpy, scipy), PL/SQL, STATA

REFERENCES

G. I. P. Ottaviano, Joseph-Simon Görlach, Francesco C. Billari, Guido E. Tabellini

WORKING PAPERS

- Tax Incentives and Completed Fertility (Job Market Paper)
- Charitable Behavior and Public Intervention: a Survey Experiment (joint work with Francesca Leombroni)
- Housing and Fertility
- The Impact of Childcare on Maternal Employment (joint work with Judit Berei, Márton Csillag, Hanna Erős, Judit Krekó, Ágota Scharle)

OTHER ACTIVITIES

- Referee for the Review of International Economics